About Margaret Clark Art Education Fund...

Margaret Davis Clark came to Redlands in 1947 and for 50 years influenced the present and future of art and culture in the San Bernardino Valley. A professor at the University of Redlands for 26 years, she taught elementary teacher candidates, infusing them with a passion for using art to teach and reach their students. In 1964, she cofounded the Redlands Art Association, establishing yet another avenue to promote visual arts with art classes for children.

"Art is not just for artists," Margaret Clark once said. "Success in art gives a child greater self-esteem. Then he can learn better."
